POLICE AUXILIARY CORPS

Looking for a great way to get involved? The Police Auxiliary Corps (PAC) presents a unique opportunity to assist the community as a police department event volunteer. This organization is primarily self-directed and self-sustaining, while grounded in the core values of volunteerism. The PAC helps to promote communication with local businesses and homeowners groups throughout the City and also fosters participation in other police department supported programs and initiatives, such as Crime Watch and the Police Athletic League.

Police Auxiliary members are never asked to do anything if they do not feel comfortable or safe, and they are always given appropriate instruction or training, and effective tools or equipment prior to engaging in any activity. With the exception of minor traffic control activity, the role of the auxiliary volunteer focuses on increased compliance through visual deterrence and the communication of proper information to event participants, spectators and motorists in the area.

Members of the PAC are not required or expected to volunteer for every event, but only two or three times a year and for a minimum number of hours. Most events require only limited volunteer assistance, while some events, such as the annual Shrimp Festival and the Atlantic Coast Triathlon, benefit from a large volunteer presence. If interested, find out more at www.fbpd.us or call Chief Jim Hurley 277-7342.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

It isn't always easy to recognize if you are in an abusive relationship. However, if your domestic partner:

- Insults you, puts you down in front of people, calls you offensive names or make you feel worthless;
- Hits, chokes, kicks or beats you;
- Threatens to hurt you or destroy personal property; or
- Controls all the family money, credit cards or vehicle; then

YOU could be a victim of domestic violence.

For help, call the Police Department or Micah's Place at 904-225-9979. For additional information about local outreach programs and the only certified domestic violence shelter in Nassau County visit: www.micahsplace.org.
